FINANCIAL. Now the holidays are over currency is falling back to its usual position. Up to the day before Christmas the demand for money for the country was so great that the banks were beginning to be straitened. Silver was especially called for, so much so that more had o be telegraphed for after the banks had laid in what was considered an ample supply. Christmas day over the extra demand ceases and the banks were approaching ease, when bad weather almost suspended the shipment cotton, which had the effect of tying up arge amounts of money, and of decreasing the supply of exchange to a point that daily leaves some of the banks with less than they require, and they have to seek aid from those who may have an excess. There is a fair de-mand for money, and the numerous commercial failures at New York, Chicago and elsewhere have added to cantion that was al-ready extreme. At the banks money quotes 8@10 per cent. per annum; exchange quoted on New York and the east 36 discount buying; New England sight, with three days grace, 16 discount; New Orleans, 14 discount; selling on all points at par. The New York Bulletin, of Friday, reports: 'New York exchange was quoted to-day as follows at the places named: Savannah— buying %, selling 4 discount. Cincinnate firm, good demand; 100@50 discount; par. New Orleans-commercial, 7-16; bank, 5-16. St. Louis, 50 dis count. Milwaukee, par. Charleston easy, 3-16 discount; 1-16@par." The Chicago Triovement to the interior, receipts are larger very conservative policy, and, as a rule, ex-bune, of Saturday, says currency is in less than shipments; the banks are pursuing a tend accommodations only to customers. In fact, caution has reached what would in prosperous times be considered an extreme point. But which will continue during the remainder of in the present uncertainty it is regarded on the season. all sides as only a wise and proper conservatism, though it is hoped the need for it may e but temporary. The New York World following: "The old custom of making speculative purchases and sales in the torm of time bar-gains offers fewer risks than the plan of buying for cash and carrying stocks loans or seiling for to-morrow's delivery and borrowing the stock. The present cus-tom makes the call loan market, both for money and stocks, much too important, and speculators care anything about it, causes far too much private business to be trans-acted in public. The custom of buyer's and seller's options does away with unnecesary transactions, keeps the business of an office from the constant inspection of other krokers, and can easily be made safe by a deposit in one of the trust companies. Anything that will lessen the risk of handling money and securities is worth attention." The cotton market yesterday (Monday) was heavy; telegrams reported dull and weak markets. New Orleans was 1-16c lower; Liverpool arrivals opened lower and closed dull. In our market there was only a moderate demand and the tendency of prices was more in favor of buyers, but rates were not quotably changed. Low grades and stains were easy, and were offered very freely, while bright cottons were scarce and firmly held.

Yesterdey. Saturday. has been unfavorable to shipping cotton from and to the market, which will account for the small receipts and sales of the week. During the week, while midding had generally advanced, ordinary, low ordinary and stained cottons have declined, owing to the increased proportion of those qualities coming into market. The week's weather has 1200 export and 700 spinning. During the week, while middling had ger been wintery, but bears no comparison in that respect with the inclemency of the same week last year. Then the average hight of the thermometer in Memphis was, for the whole week, 23 degrees, against an average of 40% degrees last week. Watts an average of 40 kg degrees last week. Watts & Co.'s last received Liverpool cotton circular places the visible supply of cotton, December 14th, at 700,000 bales less, and the stocks held by spinners in England and on the continent about 200,000 bales less than at the same time last year, a deficit of about 900,000 bales. India has been looked to to 60 cotton. bales. India has been looked to to fill up a portion of this deficiency, but Bombay advices speak less hopefully; from Egypt there will probably be a decrease, and Brazil's news is as bad as can be, only 5900 bales affoat for Steamers. European spinners' stocks being nearly fifty per cent less than last year; and that spin-ners' stocks on this side are also believed to be light. Considering these points, they are of opinion that a crop of four and threequarter millions seems indispensable, while 4,400,000 is regarded as a liberal estimate. Hence, the price being now low compared with former years, and the statistical position strong, as soon as receipts show a diminution, they look for an improvement,

The New York Bulletin of Friday reports:
"The tone has been fluctuating and feverish during a greater portion of the day, and not much business has been done outside the three near-by months. There did not appear to be many features of a decided character to advise, the changes, as usual of late, being due in the main to manipulation by local operaprovement in trade. Besides, we think it quite evident the strong statistical position, while it has attracted great attention, has as yet failed to stimulate anything like a speculative demand, because of the drawbacks to which we have referred; but there are, we pool market and the political situation, were provided to stimulate anything like a speculative demand, because of the drawbacks to which we have referred; but there are, we somewhat stimulating, and this aided efforts for a rise, and on which some six points were ing on, houng that the anticipated large receipts of American will soon present a favorable opportunity to buy." Messrs. Latham, Alexander & Co., of New York, in their cirbection with a great many short notices. Alexander & Co., of New York, in their circular of December 22d, estimate, from the present statistical position of cotton, that a considerable deficiency in the supply considerable de onsiderable deficiency in the supply, com- values back again to about where they stood pared with last year, must remain through- last evening, and the tone, if anything, weak. pared with last year, must remain throughout the cotton year, sufficient, probably, to cause sufficient apprehensions of scarcity. They also notice that, although there has been much complaint from English and continental spinners of bad trade, consumption has not been checked; the stock in Liverpool is lower than at any time since 1870; that cotton has been manufactured as fast as taken is evidenced by the European spinners, and the tone, it anything, weak. Spots have met with a moderate and uncertain demand, and the market, on the whole, was slow and tame. The actual count of cotton in New York, December 31, 1877, is as follows: In Brooklyn, 21,913 bales; Bartlett & Green, 10,134 bales; Staten Island, 33,056 bales; on shipboard not cleared, 9811 bales; on wharves, 1385 bales; in warehouses, 35,495 bales.
